

anxiety—how stupid and brutal your actions!

Dejected, embittered to the core of his fine spirit, at the unspeakable crime you have committed against him—a short time after his release from prison, my father died.

"That was the reward of one of the finest men in Suceava. Make inquiries about him, Mr. Bratiano; ask people who knew him. Examine into the reports about him which Prince Moruzy, Mr. Gizescu, and others have made. You, your State-Major, the miserable Panitescu—all of you have committed a criminal offense against our name, against our honor.

"Just imagine, Mr. Bratiano, what my brothers will think and feel when they return home—after having done their duty—and will no longer find their father and will learn that you are his murderer, you whom he voted to represent him in Parliament! And well indeed you respresented him—you released him from yourself and from all his troubles! But now all that is ended. Under the new administration, all Jews will become citizens, and they will be able to see to it that they do not again come under your yoke.

"I wanted you to know all this, Mr. Bratiano, so that in the nights to come, when your troubled conscience will not let you sleep—when you will see before your eyes the soldiers whom you have sent to their deaths, just because you wanted war—and all this must be on your conscience—you will also remember our revered father, the aged veteran Jacob Stern of Foltisheni, murdered, because he had the misfortune to be a Jew under your government, in the sad period of the World War. And we, his surviving children, will know how to do our duty. We shall place upon your forehead the brand you have earned.

"We shall also know what to do when you and those who think as you do, come to us, and appeal to us to give you our votes again.

"L. Stern, Pharmacist, "Formerly Mobilized as Officer in the Roumanian Army."

I had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Stern in the town of Tg. Neanitzu. He happened not to have a copy of the letter. I later obtained the letter from—but I dare not publish the name for fear that the man may be punished. Mr. Stern is a very interesting young man. He is the president of the Kehillah of his village. Speaking of his letter, he remarked to me with a smile: "A Jew is used to trouble. To suffer for having dared to tell the truth is not so bad as when one suffers for having said nothing—and yet one's enemy swears that he has said something." And with a shrug of his shoulders, he added; "This too, will pass away."

DENISON.

Mrs. Helen Wolfson, who lived in this city for a number of years, died Monday morning in San Antonio at the home of her son.

The remains were shipped here, her old home, for burial. Services were conducted from the Shields Undertaking parlors Tuesday morning, Dr. Yiddel officiating with a very impressive service. The deceased is survived by one daughter, Mrs. M. L. Anfenger of Denver, Colo., and three sons, A. B. of Wichita Falls, Meyer of San Antonio and Henry of Salina, Kansas. A number of grandchildren also survive.

Quite a number of relatives and friends from other cities attended the funeral.

MR. I. N. CERF

Retiring President Beth-El Congregation, Corsicana.

CORSICANA.

The many friends of Mr. Mose M. Miller of Corsicana will undoubtedly be happy to learn of his election to the presidency of Temple Beth-El in Corsicana to succeed Mr. I. N. Cerf, who has so efficiently served the congregation as its head and who resigned after six years of service. Mr. Miller was the unanimous choice of the Beth-El members.

The new president is beloved by Jew and Gentile in his community. His herculean labors on behalf of all of the many war drives will long be remembered by his townsmen. Temple Beth-El is to be congratulated on its excellent choice.

JEWISH HOSPITAL FOR MEMPHIS

In concluding his sermon at the Popular Avenue Temple on Yom Kippur eve, Friday night, October 3, Rabbi W. H. Fineschriber made an impassioned appeal to his congregation for the establishment of a Jewish Hospital and Home for Aged Jews in Memphis. Dr. Fineschriber told of the needs of such an institution in the section and explained in detail how its erection could be accomplished, what it should constitute, and how it should be conducted. The audience present upon this occasion was one of the largest ever gathered in the handsome Popular Avenue Temple of the Congregation Children of Israel.

Already, a few days following Rabbi Fineschriber's appeal, steps were being taken towards the consummation of the project.

The drive to raise $350,000 for a Tri-State Jewish and non-sectarian hospital will begin in Memphis on Nov. 1.
